

About Claudio Sartore

I was born in Vancouver, growing up in an “old school” European family. I was raised to have respect for everyone and commitment to everything I do. After graduating from John Oliver High School and obtaining a diploma from BCIT’s E/E program, I began working for BCTel/Telus in 1990. I followed my father’s business dealings since a young adult, assisting in the everyday management of family owned rental properties (rent collection, maintenance, acquisitions, etc.) as well as his primary experience as an expert kitchen designer/builder and part time contractor.

My passion and commitment to others’ goals and dreams was born through the love of sport and fitness. The team building aspect and friendships created through the common goals of sport are invaluable. My passions include basketball, volleyball and baseball. I have participated many softball leagues in Coquitlam, Port Coquitlam and Port Moody over the last 15 years and where I still play to this day. Besides participating, I have coached collegiate volleyball, high school basketball and currently assist with the Steve Nash Youth Basketball Program at Maple Ridge Senior Secondary. Golf, hiking and swimming also play major roles.

My main passion for people and their needs blossomed as an Aerobics Instructor and Personal Trainer. In 1991, I began teaching and coaching health and fitness at L.A. Sweatset, an all woman’s gym once located just behind Coquitlam Center on Glen Drive.

My passion for real estate throughout the years had never waned as I continued to be involved with my family’s dealings as well as my own. My ongoing involvement in residential properties of all types, whether primary residences, rentals, strata condos or single family detached homes allowed me to attain the confidence, knowledge and connections required to succeed.
