Stones River National Battlefield

Stones River National Battlefield is a 600-acre national park and cemetery dedicated to preserving the memory of those who fought and died at this crucial Civil War battle. A major victory for Union forces during the Civil War came at the Battle of Stones River near Murfreesboro. The conflict started on New Year's Eve, 1862. More than 83,000 soldiers fought in this Federal offensive to trisect the Confederacy. When the smoke cleared after three days of fighting, there were more than 23,000 casualties, making this one of the bloodiest battles fought west of the Appalachians. Today you can follow the course of that battle with a self-guided tour through the battlefield. Be sure to visit the National Park Service museum and join park rangers for walks and talks about the battle. Living history demonstrations are presented throughout the year. The visitor center offers a museum, self-guided driving tour and video presentation of the battle.

3501 Old Nashville Highway, Murfreesboro, Tennessee 37129
Open: Daily 8 am - 5 pm (closed Christmas Day)

Oaklands Historic House Museum

In the historic district of Murfreesboro stands the graceful Oaklands Historic House Museum. This nationally registered historic landmark reflects a prosperous time reminiscent of rolling plantations and Southern belles. During the Civil War, the plantation was used as a camp by both the Union and Confederate armies. On July 13, 1862 Confederate cavalryman Nathan Bedford Forrest led a daring raid on Union troops encamped at Oaklands. Late that afternoon their surrender was accepted at a dinner at the mansion. Later in the year President Jefferson Davis was entertained at the home.

900 North Maney Avenue, Murfreesboro, Tennessee 37130
Open: Year round, Tuesday - Saturday, 10 a.m. - 4 p.m. and Sunday, 1 p.m. - 4 p.m.
By reservation only on Mondays. Closed on major holidays
Admission: $7 adults, $5 children (16 and under), Group rates available
Phone: (615) 893-0022, www.oaklandsmuseum.org

Sam Davis Home and Museum

The Sam Davis Home and Museum tells the story of a young Tennessee Hero and the tumultuous time in Middle Tennessee before, during and after the Civil War. The 168-acre historic site transports visitors back to mid-nineteenth century Tennessee with its rolling farmland and two-story

Greek Revival home. The tour includes a museum featuring exhibits on young Davis, his family, the Civil War in Middle Tennessee, Slavery in Middle Tennessee and life after the Civil War.
